Neophyte translation

Chapter 1

From the beginning of time, in wisdom, He created the heavens and the earth.
And I saw the wilderness, and

And he said, "Mamra, let there be a river, and let there be a river like the river of Mamre. And the ancients were the rivers of Nahor, and the rivers of Arum, and it was possible for Mamre to be between Nahor and Cheshuka. And he called Mamre the river, and Nahor, and Cheshuka, and he called Leah, and he was Ramesh, and he was a trumpeter, a sergeant of the servant, at the beginning of the day of the first."

And he said, "Mamre the river, let there be a river in the places of the mountains, and he separated between the mountains of the mountains of the mountains and between the mountains of
